College football of the southwest was nearly equal to the standard played before the war. In fact the class displayed after the past few years of college sports was superior to that generally expected.

All six teams were made from green material. Distances under S. A. T. C. regulations prohibited football in 1918. The expected return of many veteran players from war service did not materialize. The fall of 1920 will usher in the best brand of football ever in this section.

The Universities of Arizona and New Mexico had the leading records. It was unfortunate that these teams did not meet. Comparative scores favored Arizona but Coach McKale of New Mexico has a shifty team which might have upset the dope. Both teams had intercollegiate games: New Mexico played Colorado Miners to a scoreless tie and Arizona built even with two California teams, winning from Occidental and losing a hard game to Pomona. These results show that southwestern football ranks well with the Rocky Mountain and Southern California Conferences.

Play Fast Football
The New Mexico College of Mines played only two games, losing both. The Texas College of Mines, all their college games but showed promise of being a factor next year. Numerous injuries hurt the Texas Miners. The New Mexico Military Institute showed promise early in the season by holding the University of New Mexico to a scoreless tie. After this game they played only ordinary football; winning a close game from the weak Texas Miners and playing a 0 to 0 game with the heavy but green New Mexico Aggies.

The New Mexico started with heavy out inexperienced material. They lost a practice game with an easy army team from Fort Bliss. Two weeks later Arizona ran away with Coach Savage's team using nothing but an end run and pass from the punt formation. The Aggies came back later in the season and outplayed the Institute in a tie game. On Thanksgiving the University of New Mexico won from the Aggies 24 to 0.

The writer has been aided by all coaches of the section in selecting this honorary team. However he has had the privilege in seeing all the teams in action at least.

Phoenix Boy Honored
Rogers of New Mexico and Marlar of Arizona, are selected as ends. These men played hard consistent football, and have no peers in the southwest. Marlar, because of his experience, is undoubtedly the best end in this section. Rogers, although a new man, played exceptional football, and is strong with the forward pass and defense. At tackle are placed Hardaway of Arizona, and McClure of New Mexico. Hardaway, while not a showy player, is one of the best fighters the game has ever produced. McClure, while a lighter and faster man than Hardaway, consistently broke through the line and downed the backs for a loss. He is also a handy man in breaking up the opponents punts. Kinnison of the Institute, and Smith of Arizona, are the best guards. Kinnison, for his size, plays a wonderful offensive and defensive game at this position, but makes up the deficiency of weight with his aggressiveness and speed. Smith is a different type of a guard from Kinnison, being large, fast and powerful. He is particularly strong in cutting down secondary defense.

Lynch of Arizona, is the greatest center this section has ever produced. He is this year's greatest linesman. Playing his third year at Arizona, he has experience as a member of the first division football team, has made him a wonderful defensive player. He is named captain of the honorary team. Tubby Mann of New Mexico, is a backfield who can play in the fastest football circles. Both offensively and defensively he is far superior to any other backfield. He is a combination of speed, aggressiveness and experience. Hanzo of Arizona, is selected as

DEFER ACTION ON QUESTION OF EXTINGUISHING PAROLE

Remarkable Prisoner Who Now Asks Freedom Has Recovered Health and Built Up Fine Business While in Prison

Called up for consideration and deferred pending further investigation, the application of Louis V. Eytene for parole from the state penitentiary at Florence attained the most progress yesterday that it has made since the filing of it several days ago, according to reports brought here from Florence last night by Governor Thomas E. Campbell.

The governor was at the Superior prison camp on Saturday and at Florence yesterday, in company with the state board of pardons and paroles. He is not an ex-officio member of the board, but has the authority to accept or reject the board's recommendations for pardons and paroles. The board members are Wiley E. Jones, attorney general; C. O. Case, superintendent of public instruction; Chairman Curt W. Miller, citizen member, and Secretary Frank E. McCrary.

Eytene is rated one of the most remarkable convicts in the United States, having succeeded during his term in prison in amassing a fortune and recovering his health. He came here several years ago, bringing a prison record from the east, and was afflicted with tuberculosis. Shortly after his arrival in Arizona he became implicated in the death of a young man here and on circumstantial evidence was convicted of murder, although he made no admissions.

Recovered Health and Made Money
A stalwart Indian, who entered the penitentiary with him, died of tuberculosis within the year while Eytene in the same time was reported well. Eytene began making money as a sort of broker for the convicts, his superior selling ability enabling him to market the horse-hair trinkets that they made. In that capacity he is said to have built up a fine business.

His next venture was that of business adviser to all sorts of trade concerns throughout the country, practically all of his work in that line being done through the mails. He is said now to have an enviable practice, superior to that of any other men who didn't happen to go to jail.

On a claim of good conduct and ability to take good care of himself without the necessity of recourse to such methods as he had been convicted of in the past, Eytene asked for parole, but he found that his "silver-penned oratory" would not get over with the parole board as it did with trade interests who showered their money in order to learn business from him.

As his application for parole was not turned down by the board yesterday, but merely deferred, there is said to be a strong probability of further action on the application at an early date.

STUDIES ROAD CAMP

The state road camp at Superior, where a recent outbreak among the prisoners resulted in the death of one, is reported in the morning newspaper to be a most satisfactory and that every indication there pointed to a successful outcome of the state's venture in providing employment for the prisoners.

The camp is only 60 days old, and has 86 prisoners at work. Much of the road work at hand is in a hard country. The men are said to be trying in every way possible, and it is considered probable that several recommendations for parole will be submitted to the governor as a result of the board's findings at Florence yesterday.

Despite the number of paroles which have been granted from time to time on recommendation of the parole board, the population of the prison is on the increase. It was reported yesterday that on January 1, 1919, when the present administration took office, there were 250 state prisoners at Florence and in the road camps. Today there are 807. Of these 718 are confined in the prison, 86 are out on honor and 86 are employed on state road work.

ing entire test, same surface down at all times, dropped from 492 to 260 pounds. (232 pounds lost.) During the test this bale absorbed moisture until it weighed 412 pounds on June 7. In reconditioning 420 pounds of moisture went out and 232 pounds of mold and ruined cotton were thrown away.

Bale No. 5, on end on ground during the entire test, with same surface down at all times, dropped from 505 pounds to 385 pounds. (Loss of 120 pounds.)

Bale No. 6, on edge during the entire test, same surface down at all times, dropped from 503 to 418 pounds. (Loss of 85 pounds.)

Bale No. 7, on edge on ground, turned from time to time, at least once a week, dropped from 495 to 473 pounds. (Loss of 22 pounds.)

Inquiries by the agricultural section of the Railroad Administration have developed that the tests actually demonstrated what will happen to average bales of cotton handled in the same fashion, and do not represent exceptional cases. Many practical illustrations could be cited to support the result of each test.

SEAT SALE FOR ALICE NEILSON CONCERT AT ELKS TO OPEN TODAY

The seat sale for the Alice Neilson concert at the Elks theater on Friday opens at the Elks box office this morning at nine o'clock. There is bound to be a big demand for seats. Miss Neilson is the best liked of all the American prima donnas.

One often hears the question: "For how many years did Alice Neilson reign as the queen of light opera in America?" "Oh, it must have been ten," the average theater going music lover will answer, which shows what an impression Miss Neilson made, for it was only after five seasons—two with the Bostonians and three at the head of the Alice Neilson Opera company—that she left the light opera field to gain equal honors in grand opera. But the parts she sang remain fresh in the minds of all who saw them—the red and the black knickers of "The Serenade," the wooden shoes and the Dutch cap of "The Singing Girl," and the three changes in "The Fortune Teller," Irma, the flower girl, Musette, the Gypsy, and Fedora, her twin brother.

And such an honorable career in grand opera and concert extending the world over lies between those days and the present, it is the same dainty, petite Alice Neilson, able at this moment to step into those same old costumes, who will sing the following program at the Elks next Friday night. Incidentally, she is bringing the same beautiful voice and the same unusual ability.
